

Excerpts of thank you notes from our new 2011 WMF Scholars...

Dennis Agbenyenu, Ghana - I feel very special to be selected as one of the WMF Scholars and to be part of this family. In fact, your foundation has really helped a soul regain confidence in life, because I had no hope of making payment of my fees for this academic year. God bless you and all the board of directors in abundance.

Ralf Etienne, Haiti - I feel very special today because I am one of your proud scholars. I want to thank you very much for your precious act of generosity to me. It's very remarkable for my recovery and future.

Mayom Marek, South Sudan - Through WMF's hard work, commitment and generosity from a far country beyond the sea, where my eyes could not imagine a thought, I received a noble scholarship. What a privilege, honor and love! WMF is a foundation of hope for the needy. I'm very grateful. I will touch thousands of lives through you. It is a mission of empowerment conferred upon me by WMF to change my community, my country and the world at large.

Prossy Amal, Uganda - Wow! It is amazing. I screamed loud when I read my email. Thank you so much! I really thank you from my heart, now I am able to study. God bless you more and more for your kind consideration towards me.

Wilberforce Lusamba, Kenya - From the bottom of my heart, I sincerely thank you for this once in a life time opportunity to get a scholarship and continue with my education and achieve my dream of not only becoming a doctor, but also one day to touch the people of my community and others in a positive way. I promise to work even harder in my academics and in my volunteer work to make you proud and to make the world a significantly better place.

Grace Musiimenta, Uganda - Thank you very, very much for the scholarship. You have saved my education and my future. Thank you for making me part of the WMF family. You just put a smile of hope on my future.

Collins Kivumbi, Uganda - Thank you WMF! It feels like Christmas day now. How awesome!!! A new mercy I have seen today. WMF has been a blessing coming. I cannot even say more and I can't say enough either. My educational career was standing at a crossroads where all the signs had fallen, but WMF has raised a sign for me to give me a direction and a destiny. What can I say to thank you, WMF? With this scholarship, my life has just begun. I can see my future beginning to shape up courtesy of WMF. My best days are still ahead. I will always stand, adapt and build for what you stand for.

Elijah Otto, Liberian refugee in Ghana - Tears run down my eyelids as I send you this email. I am very glad and thankful for the blessing of God to be selected as a WMF Scholar in order to further my studies and move the world. To be a refugee is not an easy thing. However, a lasting solution, the possibility to begin a new life, is the only dignified solution for the refugee himself. Thank you much more than words can say.

And still more thank you's ...

Molly Grace Apio, Uganda - This is unbelievable! I am filled with tears of joy accompanied with endless smiles and sleepless nights. I had lost all hope of continuing with my studies, but thank God for WMF who saw a need in me and picked me among hundreds. You are so wonderful and I am so grateful for your wonderful gesture. May God bless you as you continue helping other needy people out there.

Felix Kawooya, Uganda - I left my village (to head back to school) stressed, disturbed and confused about the future and how to pay for my studies. I prayed for a miracle. With all hopes gone and thinking about how to apply for a dead year, I received your email. This will be a day to remember in my life. God has heard my prayer and I will ever be grateful to WMF. I will now be able to achieve my ever-desired dream (to become a doctor) and be of benefit to my poor local community. Am so excited and really feel special and proud to be part of the WMF Scholars' family.

Hafiza Farzami, Afghanistan - I just started my second semester. It is great to feel safe and be able to get a higher education as a woman from a third world country. Your contribution has made a significant change in my life. Thanks for believing in education and women!

Charles Kajokaya, South Sudan - Many thanks indeed to WMF. I am very, very happy for being considered. I very much appreciate your support towards my education because it has opened the way for many South Sudanese as I remain committed to offering voluntary services to the poverty-ravaged South Sudan through fighting corruption, poverty, illiteracy and the AIDS scourge.

Victoria Ogbonnaya, Nigeria - Thank you so much for making me a beneficiary of the WMF scholarship. At first, I couldn't believe that of all the applicants, I was chosen. I feel so proud and special and privileged to be a member of the WMF family. I promise to work hard in my education.

Brian Mulondo, Uganda - I am so glad to be one of the new scholars this academic year, This opportunity has come at such a time when I had no idea where I would get school fees for the forthcoming academic year and at a time when I had lost hope of proceeding with my education. There are no exact words I can use to explain the feeling, joy and happiness I have, but all I can say is thank you Wells Mountain Foundation for giving me this great opportunity. I can now proceed with my education and become a doctor.

Bonny Mark Alinga, Uganda - I am honored to be a recipient of the WMF scholarship. Coming from a war-ravaged region of northern Uganda and from a humble family, I must say, it wasn't easy to make it to the university. Without donors like you, many students would be unable to pursue the career of their dreams. I not only have passion for my career goals, but also have a vision to help others and make my community literate and a sound and safe place to live.
